

Queensland Competition Authority

Consumer Advisory Committee Charter

Background

On 7 December 2006, the Electricity Act 1994 and Gas Supply Act 2003 were amended to facilitate the introduction, from 1 July 2007, of full retail competition in the supply of electricity and gas.

These amendments set out the framework for the operation of full retail competition and confer administrative and regulatory roles on:

- the Queensland Competition Authority in relation to making, amending and enforcing industry codes, changes to notified retail electricity prices and provision of retail price information and comparisons; and
- the Energy and Water Ombudsman of Queensland in relation to small customer complaints and disputes.

Consumer Advisory Committee

An important element of the framework is the establishment of a Consumer Advisory Committee to advise the Authority on the performance of its functions under the Acts, including:

- (a) the making, or amendment, of an industry code; and
- (b) any other matter about the electricity supply industry or reticulated processed natural gas markets.

The Committee will report to the Authority on a regular basis, thereby allowing the representatives of small energy users access to the Authority to advise it on the interests of consumers in the developing competitive energy markets in Queensland.

Interpretation

In this Charter, unless the contrary intention appears:

“Authority” means the Queensland Competition Authority.

“Energy” means electricity or gas;

“Presiding Officer” means the chairperson of the Consumer Advisory Committee; and

“Small Customer” means residential and small business customers.

Objective of the Consumer Advisory Committee

The Consumer Advisory Committee is to act as a representative body on behalf of small customers and to advise the Authority on the interests of consumers in the exercise of the Authority's responsibilities under the Electricity Act 1994 and Gas Supply Act 2003.

Upon the expiry of a Member's term of office, the Authority may re-appoint the Member for a further term.

The Authority may cancel the appointment of a Member at any time.

A quorum at a meeting of the Committee shall consist of the Presiding Officer and three Members.

The Committee is not a decision making body. However, the Committee can raise matters of concern to the Authority through the minutes of Committee meetings.

The Committee's Charter may only be amended by the Authority.

Remuneration

Members are bound by the confidentiality provisions of the Queensland Competition Authority Act 1997.
